Department of Commerce

Commerce Department, established in 1997, has evolved into a thriving centre for academic excellence, known for its innovative approach to education and student development. The department is well-equipped with a cutting-edge Commerce Lab, featuring advanced computer systems that are instrumental in honing the practical skills of students. This lab serves as a critical resource for bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application, ensuring that students are well-prepared for the demands of the modern business world.

In addition to its technological resources, the department boasts a comprehensive Commerce Resource Centre, established in the year 2010, which is integral to fostering continuous learning and professional growth. This centre regularly hosts a wide array of workshops, conferences, and seminars, providing students and faculty with opportunities to engage with the latest developments in commerce and related fields. These events are designed to enhance both the academic and professional competencies of participants, making them more competitive in the global marketplace.

The department is deeply committed to the all-around development of its students, and this commitment is reflected in the variety of activities and programs it offers. One of the department's standout initiatives is the Commerce Association, an active student organization that plays a key role in campus life. The association organizes an annual academic fest, a vibrant event that allows students to showcase their talents, network with peers, and gain valuable experience in event management and leadership.

Moreover, the department publishes the Commerce Herald, a magazine that serves as a creative and intellectual platform for students and faculty alike. This publication features a diverse range of content, including articles, research papers, poems, and drawings, all of which contribute to the cultivation of both creative and analytical skills among contributors.

To further support its students, the department offers remedial courses tailored for those who may require additional academic assistance. It also provides specialized Certificate Courses in Event Management and Retail Management, equipping students with practical, industry-relevant skills that enhance their employability. For those pursuing advanced studies, in scholarly research under the mentorship of experienced faculty members, Commerce Department is having Ph.D. Research Centre in the subject of Business Policy & Administration with an intake capacity (08) student. Further (12) students have already done their doctorate from this esteemed department.

In essence, the Commerce Department is dedicated to creating a dynamic, supportive environment that nurtures both academic excellence and personal growth, ensuring that students are well-prepared to excel in their chosen careers.
